

MMC | Military Medical Community

The Military Medical Community (MMC) hosts monthly virtual presentations by tri-service military physicians in a specialty at different stages of their career. Presentations are followed by breakout rooms where future medical school applicants can speak with recruiters, medical students, and admissions office staff; and medical students can speak with residency directors and specialty leaders.

In addition to specialty night presentations the MMC webpage hosts a calendar of other military medicine events, resources, and information on starting a chapter on your campus.
